Heart of Germany's Mighty Fleet Passes into Power of Allied Navy

Germany, as a naval power, ceased to exist on Thursday last. The heart of her mighty fleet—fourteen ships of the line, seven light cruisers and fifty destroyers—surrendered to an armada of British, French and American vessels, the greatest fighting force that ever stood out to sea.

The minutely detailed programme of submission laid down by the commander of the British fleet was carried out strictly according to plan. The German warships, strung out in a single column almost twenty miles long, appeared at the rendezvous at the appointed time and were led into the Firth of Forth between twin columns of allied ships which overlapped the Germans at each end. At night the enemy craft were anchored in the Firth, under guard as prisoners. A surrender on such a gigantic scale has no precedent in naval history. Although the wonderful naval spectacle was the same as a peace-time review and evoked little enthusiasm, the haze blotting out the horizon, officers could scarcely credit the evidence of their eyes. It was an event which shattered all naval traditions and ideals. Men animated by the spirit of the Lawrence Dawn's "don't give up the ship," and Nelson's "England expects every man to do his duty," could not conceive of such an inglorious fate as that to which the great enemy sea force was now submitting. The Associated Press correspondent, on the deck of a dreadnaught heard an officer exclaim: "Even these poor old Spaniards knowing they hadn't a chance, came out of Santiago."

The main allied fleet, extending over a line fourteen miles long in the Firth of Forth, began to weigh anchor at one o'clock on Thursday morning. The Scotch mist which for days had obscured the harbor, was swept away by a stiff breeze and the moon shone brilliantly out of a clear sky. The ships quickly took their stations in the long double line they held throughout the day. The battle cruisers led the way, followed by dreadnaughts. Admiral Beatty's flagship, the Queen Elizabeth, led the squadron in the northern column. The American warships fell into line behind Admiral Beatty's craft, balancing a British squadron similar in power in the opposite file. The rendezvous was approximately fifty miles distant and the ships angled their speed to arrive at the appointed place at 8 o'clock. At five o'clock a signal summoned the men into battle stations and, except for the officers "on the bridges," the ships' companies were hidden behind bulwarks of steel. When dawn broke the sea was again covered with mist which reduced the visibility to less than eight thousand yards. Eyes straining through the murky haze finally were rewarded. Off the starboard bow the Cardiff, trailing an observation kite balloon, came steaming in. Close behind her came the first of the German ships, the great battle cruiser Seydlitz, which was flying the flag of Commodore Togo; after her came four others of the same type, the Derfflinger, Von Der Tann, Hindenburg and Moltke. They moved along three cable lengths apart. Immediately following them were nine dreadnaughts, the Friedrich Der Grosse, flagship of Rear Admiral von Reuter; the Koenig Albert, Kaiser, Kronprinz, Wilhelm, Kaiserin, Bayern, Graf, Prinz Regent Luitpold and the Grosser Kurfurst. Three miles astern of the battleships came seven light cruisers, the Karlsruhe, bearing the ensign of Commodore Harder; the Frankfurt, Emden, Nurnberg, Coln, Brummer and Bremen. Then came another gap of three miles and German destroyers came steaming in five columns abreast, with ten destroyers to a column.

The northern column steamed on to the regular anchorages higher up the Firth. Inspection parties from the grand fleet boarded the German vessels to make sure that all conditions of the armistice were observed. The enemy vessels will be interned in Scapa Flow. Part of the crews will remain for maintenance work and the remainder will be returned to Germany soon. Admiral Beatty's historic signal after the German fleet had been moored at the appointed place was: "The German flag is to be hauled down at 3.57, and is not to be hoisted again without permission."

STAND OF CANADIANS AGAINST FURY OF GERMANS WAS HISTORIC

STORIES OF GALLANT EPISODES ARE INNUMERABLE

Assaulting Troops Were Supported By the Greatest Massing
Of Machine Guns the War Has Produced—Nation Will Thrill
With Pride at Story of Gallant Resistance

Saddened by the heavy price of victory, the people of Canada will thrill with pride when they come to read the full story of the wonderful stand their troops made against enemy masses bent on taking from them their conquests. Gallant and heroic episodes are innumerable. Battalions, companies and little knots of men stood their ground against waves after waves of assaulting troops, supported by the greatest massing of machine guns this war has produced. It is the proud history of standing troops, such as the Canadian corps, that they sometimes create for themselves, in their impetuous, unprotected flanks. The salient they drive into the enemy line becomes enfiladed, and it is not until it is widened it out into a practical front the troops in the apex must either fight it out against the odds or fall back. The latter is not the lesson the Canadian corps has learned, and it was this advantage clinging to positions, tactically untenable, that contributed to our heavy casualties. Incidentally it was just such stands that stemmed the enemy waves and frustrated his savage efforts to win back the Canadian line.

Such a situation was brought about when a famous Ontario regiment having reached its objective, the Oubliers, found that its left flank was exposed and shattering enemy masses were advancing. In its retirement would have been perfectly justified, but such would have uncovered the centre of the line. The gains on our right, brilliantly made in the early morning. So that battalion, when supports were pushed into them, few were unwounded, and the captain, who was killed, died of his wounds.

Holding the vital trench on the flank was a party of seven men of this unit, whose command had been taken over by a staff captain, attached to the intelligence staff of the brigade. He had been sent forward by the brigadier to help fill the depleted ranks of officers after having been recalled hastily after only three days of leave, to take his place in this battle.

This little party was entirely isolated, but for hours they held on to the trench that was the key to the position. They were still grimly carrying on, taking a great toll of the enemy, when supports were pushed into them. Few were unwounded, and the captain, who was killed, died of his wounds.

The intelligence officer of another brigade, engaged in a similar position, particularly distinguished himself by brilliant reconnaissance work, pushing out beyond our own lines under continual fire. He comes from British Columbia. A lieutenant in a Manitoba battalion, D.C.M. and M.C., and formerly a non-commissioned officer, by his devoted example inspired his men to a gallant and extraordinary heavy punishment. Though wounded in both legs he carried on till he fainted from loss of blood and was carried out. The commanding officer of a Nova Scotia battalion, though wounded in the cheek, temporarily losing the sight of an eye, refused to be evacuated and stayed by his unit throughout the operation, contributing greatly to its success.

The colonel of an Ontario battalion though seriously wounded in the hip, which ended fatally, directed his command until he was pronounced dead. His brilliant leadership had proved a great asset in a critical part of the struggle.

Increased Acreage for Next Year
Every effort should be made to help the farmers of Canada to put an increased area under the plow this fall. City men have helped with the harvest, and success seems to be assured. City men must help out in cases where farmers find labor scarce for fall plowing. Men, now in cities, who have worked on farms, and can handle horses, should render themselves available for this important work.

Iron Crosses to the number of 4,635,000 have been bestowed on German soldiers, officers and men. One of the five of the highest rank (the Grand Cross) was given by the Kaiser to himself.

The Stricken Belgians

Need of War Sufferers Even Greater Today

The eyes of the world have been withdrawn of late from Belgium by the attraction of the battlefronts. The first line outpouring of sympathy for the martyred little country was accompanied by a flood of offerings, in money, in food, in clothing and in necessities, without parallel in history. The need of the Belgians is even greater today, but there is danger that the allied people, engrossed with their own war efforts and problems, may not be fully seized of the appalling catastrophe behind the curtain which Germany has tried to screen her fanatics in the land first trodden by her brutal heel. The Belgians today are economic slaves of the Hun. Before the war Belgium was one of the most highly industrialized portions of Europe. Her factories have been dismantled, the machinery has been shipped to Germany, and the operatives have been employed or entering German workshops to forge the weapons which are turned against the breasts of the men fighting to redeem Belgium. Millions who depended upon mechanical industry for their wages or their incomes have been reduced to want and misery. The years have been years of the lowering physical vitality. The fear and inevitable penalty of mutilation, tuberculosis, and scourging the land. The children are its foremost prey. The healthy child has become the exception. It is a sad outlook; the rising generation, upon which will devolve the task of repairing the ravages of the Hun, is being reared in the shadow of hunger and suffering. No other nation has endured such tortures of body and soul.

If the stream of benevolence which has flowed to Belgium from other countries should dry up or greatly diminish, the Belgians would be doomed. In the cities and towns they are living today near the border line of starvation. They would be the supplies from abroad were stopped. Famine would do for Belgium what the Hun has done for Poland and crown the work of the devastating Hun—Toronto Globe.

What They Tell About Paris

Germany Says It Is a Deserted and Terror-stricken City

The Boche papers assert that Paris is panic-stricken. That at midnight a tremor like a leaf, is frightened to open a window; that the police are worn out by fatigue, and that the city is barricaded at the Lycee and defended by an army of blockades. The authorities are expelling the citizens by force, and the railway stations are overflowing and have been taken by storm. The food is scarce and food is hard to get and uneatable. Carries are deserted, shops empty, and the streets are deserted. The last unfortunate (who are not any more) are getting weaker every hour, and start at the slightest noise, even the toot of a motorist's horn or the bursting of a paper bag that has been inflated by a child. The truth of the matter is that Paris is so, resolute in spirit that it has no need to take on a childish and sullen aspect. The public services are conducted marvelously. Every-thing goes on in the same old way. Post, telephone and telegraph offices, banks, shops and other vast establishments buzz with their usual activity. The Bois is crowded with carriage folk and pedestrians, and the galleries, Champs Elysees and Luxembourg are alive with children running about, while their elders are seated under the trees. The little girls in the square hop and leap, playing "doubting and trembling" with their skipping ropes. The plucky women newspaper sellers all along the boulevards continue to inhabit the kiosks, which do duty for a dwelling, and one particular florist joyously continues to pack his stall with rose trees and blue hydrangeas on the spot where a shell fell recently. Finally, the bread is good with genuine "inside" that is not too soft and a crust that is not too hard.

Tank Mines Little Obstacle

Americans Drive Machines Right on Top of Men, Guns and Nets

Before the American advance the Germans littered the country with tank mines, apparently intended for a withdrawal. Scores of British tanks, many of them manned by American crews, are co-operating in the American advance. One of these rolled over a mine and was blown up, one casualty resulting. The others got through and did splendid execution. These American tank crews were trained in England, and had been waiting behind the front for the tanks. They rolled along before the infantry and directly in the rear of a creeping barrage, and cleared many machine gun nests. British, the Americans drove their machines right on top of the Germans, crushing down men, guns and nests. Some of the crews came out of the fight with their tractors dripping with blood, showing how completely they had accomplished the task assigned to them.

Famous Bible Taken by Bolsheviks

The Bolsheviks have abolished the old calendar and church holidays in Russia and confiscated church property to the extent of billions of rubles. One Bible taken from a Moscow church, studded with diamonds and other precious stones and worth one million dollars—The Baltimore Sun.

One Billion Silver Dollars, laid in a row, says Gas Logic, each coin just touching the one before it and the one following, would form a line that would reach practically around the entire world.

An Eternal Insolence

Throne Hand in Germany Is a Fool

"You in your factory and I on my street," was a phrase in the Kaiser's recent speech. A German variation of "You in your small corner and I in mine" lacks convincing power because of the vast contrast between the factory and the throne. In all probability the factory hand has lost most of his relatives and his friends because of the time and place of the throne hand. He is starving and freezing at the instance of the throne hand. He has robbed comfort and hope solely because the throne hand is a fool and a knave.

On the contrary the hand of the throne hand are all alive. Any prince who have fallen in battle came from Bavaria or Prussia or other than Prussia. The throne hand has a well-furnished table and a superfluity of clothes. The German has coal. All the good things in Germany come to the emperor. There are not enough to supply the riotous wants of the factory hand. An appeal for community of service should be made to the workers of Germany. The eternal insolence, an enduring insult to the workers of Germany. The slave driver might speak to the whipped and degraded slave.

A spy organization, run by Germans, has been discovered in Rio de Janeiro, with agencies in Brazilian states, especially to the south. An employee of the light and power company, named Streer, disappeared.

Tackled Seaplane

To Their Sorrow

Submarine Fought Back and Was Either Badly Damaged or Destroyed

The first case in which it is known that a submarine fought back when attacked by a seaplane resulted in the probable destruction of the submarine by an American aviator, Reserve Ensign J. F. Carson, it is announced by the British admiralty. With shrapnel from the elevated forward of the submarine bursting around his seaplane Ensign Carson manoeuvred until he was able to pour machine gun fire into the crew, felling two of them and driving the others inside. The submarine submerged, and as she was diving two bombs were dropped on her. Within a few minutes the bow of the U-boat appeared on the surface and remained visible about four minutes. More bombs were dropped in this interval and it is believed the undercarriage was either badly damaged or destroyed.

Ensign Carson, who was on patrol, remained over the spot fifteen or twenty minutes, but the U-boat no longer in evidence. After going to the base to get another machine he returned to the spot, and this time again there were no traces of the submarine.

Tzecho-Slovaks Decorated

Received Medals From King Victor of Italy

A recent occasion on which the King of Italy presented medals for distinguished service in the field to those soldiers who had shown exceptional heroism in the fighting on the Italian front this summer was given a particularly interesting character by the fact that not only Italian but Tzecho-Slovak soldiers were decorated. Both officers and men belonging to the Tzecho-Slovak forces received Italian and bronze medals or crosses of war from the hands of King Victor Emmanuel, who spoke a few kindly words to each, often asking some question and greeting each man with a cordial handshake. The names of the Tzecho-Slovaks who so distinguished themselves are withheld in the accounts of the ceremony published in the newspapers, lest it should be the means of bringing suffering upon their families in Bohemia.

Refuse to Return to Germany

The German authorities in Berlin have instructed all Germans discharged from the army and living in Switzerland to return to Germany for work in rear of the fighting lines, especially in guarding prisoners. German subjects in Switzerland show little inclination to respond to the call, and it is believed that 75 per cent of the 10,000 Germans affected will refuse to return to Germany.

The Picture of Health

BEAUTY and health usually go together. But many people, especially men, are lacking in the healthy glow of the complexion, they fail to attract.

Pure, red blood is essential to beauty. For, in addition to giving color to the skin, it fills the body with vitality and energy.

There is a sparkle to the eye and grace and elasticity of every movement of the body.

Health and beauty abound.

Now just because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food actually forms new, rich blood, it is conducive of heavy and hearty pleasures exactly what is lacking when you become pale, weak, languid, and lose the vivacity of health.

Even beauty of disposition and character are marred when the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves are weak and exhausted.

With restored strength you experience the desire to serve and help others, and so beauty of complexion, of form and of character unite to make you happy and contented.

It is only necessary to look for the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Recept Book author, on the box you buy so as to be guaranteed against imitations. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Crossed Bridge

In Hall of Lead

English Corporal Prevented Destruction by Germans of Way Over Canal

During the forcing of the Scheldt canal an English corporal discovered the enemy's machine gun position on bridge over the canal so he got a handful of men first and finished off the enemy's machine gun position on this side of the bridge. Then, all alone, he dashed across it, although there were no other troops, and machine guns shooting at him from the other bank. He jumped into a hole in the ground, where three German pioneers were waiting the order to throw the switch and blow up the bridge with demolition charges. The corporal bayoneted two of the men and accepted the surrender of the third, who offered to show him where the charges were. The corporal cut the wires leading to the explosives under the bridge, and the bridge was one of immense value to the Germans thereafter.

Large Cattle Deal Completed

The consummation of a large deal in cattle by a Calgary packing company has just been announced. The sale involves 1,000 head of steers, and was made by ranches of Taber, Alberta, the price paid by the packing company being $200 a head, pick to be made from 1,500 head. All summer the animals have been grazing on land that, with the development of the country will later be divided into irrigable farms. Producing so much nutritious grass as this land does now, it is not very difficult to imagine its enormous capacity for production when properly cultivated and water is applied intelligently.

Refuse to Return to Germany

German subjects in Switzerland show little inclination to respond to the call, and it is believed that 75 per cent of the 10,000 Germans affected will refuse to return to Germany.

The German Whimper

Everybody knows the difference between a manly attitude in the face of misfortune, and a whining attitude. And today the commonest tone of the German rulers is a whimper. Let us suppose the proposition is accepted. Immediately in Germany there would be a delirium of joy. The people are electrified and the Kaiser has retained them in his hands. The humiliation of having demanded peace would disappear rapidly. He becomes the hero of heroes. He has restated a world coalition."

Unconditional Surrender Characterizes the General Commitment in Paris on the Demand for Peace sent by the central powers to President Wilson.

It is felt here that Germany and her allies have not gone far enough in their request to the president for an armistice, and that although they have stated that they are willing to talk peace on President Wilson's representations, they have not shown submission such as was forced upon Bulgaria.

Immediately in Germany there would be a delirium of joy. The people are electrified and the Kaiser has retained them in his hands. The humiliation of having demanded peace would disappear rapidly. He becomes the hero of heroes. He has restated a world coalition."

Two Kinds of Dollars

"A dollar thrown away is not as bright as a dollar put away," is the old proverb. Though people no longer heard money in stockings, the principle is as true as it ever was. The dollar that is thrown away doesn't stay whole and useful. The dollar that is put away keeps its earning power and utility in time of need.

The future of Canada will depend on the dollars that are put away now. The great prosperity we are enjoying now cannot last forever. You may have dollars to throw away now; but if you do you will long some day for dollars to put away. Then the dollars the other fellow has put away for dollars to put away. Saving the dollars is common sense and it is patriotism too. Start putting away the bright ones.

Indians Aid Food Production

There will be approximately 100,000 acres of Saskatchewan land in the greater production scheme next year. This means a decrease in the amount of land cultivated by the Indians, who have shown a great willingness to work harder than they ever did before on their holdings, in view of the shortage of foodstuffs. The amount the Indians will need to wheat next year is double their acreage this year.

Clovers Thrive in Alberta

Every Year Seed in Increasing Quantities Is Being Produced

White, alisk and sweet clovers grow abundantly in the irrigated districts of Southern Alberta and in the central and northern parts of the province without irrigation. The alfalfa with which white clover grows in Central Alberta is especially noticeable in the residential parts of Edmonton, where the clover has overgrown the lawn grass on the borders of the streets, giving them a carpet of white throughout the summer. It spreads spontaneously and is perfectly hardy.

Alisk clover is a very hardy crop and is grown successfully in many parts of Alberta, with and without irrigation, both for hay and pasture. In Central Alberta it is frequently grown with timothy. South of Edmonton a farmer has a field of alisk which was planted eight years ago, the growth of which was thicker this year than with the first crop. The crop has passed the experimental stage and every year seed in increasing quantities is being produced.

Sweet clover was introduced into Alberta at a later date than the other varieties mentioned, but it is being grown quite as successfully, and becoming increasingly popular among dairy farmers.

In order to reach the highest point of perfection each of the new square Royal West Cakes will be wrapped and sealed in waxed paper by machinery. This makes them practically airtight, and keeps them longer.

British Scientists Have Risen to and Overcome a Great Emergency

It is sometimes argued as though the application of science to industry were a German discovery. Nothing of the kind. Scientific industrialism has its origins here. But in the last twenty years prior to the war, our rivals both in Germany and America, were certainly making headway at the time of our own industrial revolution. British scientists and British manufacturers have risen to and overcome a great emergency, and there are probably more than a dozen of the state towards industrial regulation. His Mother's Keepsake

In the midst of a battle one young lieutenant, running into a pile of his mother's keepsakes, found in his pocket a little gold brooch. "If anything should happen to me," he thought, "I will leave this to you, and when you get time stop it back to my mother."

Canada's Army Corps

Second To None

Dominant Factor in Success Is Team Play

Major General Newburn, minister of militia, in an address to the army and navy at the Central Canada Exhibition, said that the Canadian army corps in France is the strongest fighting force, second to none.

This is admitted by officials of the military and naval forces. They have proved it at Arras, Amiens and other points to which they were moved. "If our casualties have been heavy," said General Newburn, "there were men in the reinforcing pools in France to fill every gap, and the pools were re-filled from the corps in England."

General Newburn said the Canadian corps had developed many geniuses and paid high tribute to the work of the Central Stewart, of the railway, who was in charge of the troops, who were in charge of the troops, who were in charge of the troops.

Sioux Indians

Backing the War

Members of Tribe Enlist and Buy Bonds

The Sioux Indians are among the most enthusiastic of their race in the Northwest, and they are not merely in the movement for a chance to get into the schools, but they are going in to the war with the same understanding of what they are doing as the white men of the Northwest. Many of the young men of the tribe are going to the war with the same understanding of what they are doing as the white men of the Northwest.

The number who have been sent from South Dakota is not obtainable from any central record, but every reservation has furnished its quota, and there are probably more than a thousand from Dakota with Indian blood in their veins, either at the front or in the hospitals.

Some of the most popular endeavors are that of Red Cross work, the women not only doing the same class of work as do the women of the Red Cross societies among the whites, but the older women in the tribe are doing the same class of work as do the women of the Red Cross societies among the whites.

At a recent sale at an Indian camp on the Rosebud reservation, the Indians were offered a number of Indian-made goods, and the whole affair was under control of the Indians, the receipts were $1200 for the Red Cross. At Cheyenne agency, where whites as well as Indians were purchasers, but the donors Indians, the returns went far above this. The Sioux Indians are backing the war movement in every way.

Yankee Ingenuity

Popular American Sport Directed Toward Winning War

Scarcely a day passes but that the news reports tell us of some new invention of the application of Yankee ingenuity to the prosecution of the war. The latest sample is credited to an Indian contingent which successfully tried out setting bear traps in No Man's Land. The Indians were simply applying an idea of their own west where big game is plentiful. The traps are placed outside the American wire, and when Fritz crawls out to gain a little information he gets caught.

Another truly American idea which is saving many lives in the front line is the so-called "buckshot squads." These squads are made up of crack trapshooters. Instead of directing their efforts on clay pigeons they direct their fire toward the trenches. The squads are made up of crack trapshooters. Instead of directing their efforts on clay pigeons they direct their fire toward the trenches.

A Poor Picture
The teacher had sketched on the blackboard a picture of a deer. As the class did not readily respond to the request to reveal the identity of the animal the teacher sought to prompt them.

STRONG PEOPLE NEEDED

It is urgent for people to be healthy

The need. Those whom illness has urged to consider the value of robust men and women feel their position keenly. They are handicapped in every walk of life and weak men and nerve-worn women need more than a remedy to put their health right and become active and strong. Many who begin "patching" money ago are so ill now as on the day they began vainly tinkering with common drugs.

General Gordon's Army had to remember that the ill of debility, nerve exhaustion, indigestion, sleeplessness, neuritis and other ailments come from a faulty blood supply. Worry, over-work or other causes have retarded the normal flow of the life-stream impure. The nerves thereby are starving and the whole system is languishing for new blood. In this condition many thousands have won back strong nerves and new health and strength through the new rich blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make. In a weak or bloodless condition it is not only a matter of time and money, but a further menace to your health to tinker with common drugs. Follow the simple plan of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial, and they will transform you into healthy, active men and women.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at $10 per box or six boxes $50.00 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Sentiment and The Editor

Last week we looked in a neighboring newspaper, expecting to see an account of how a young man had gone wrong. Not a line about the young man could be found. A broken-hearted wife or relative had gone to the editor and asked him to say nothing, and the tears had won the promise from him. "We have gone through the same thing ourselves many times. An editor is not a saint. He has his likes and his dislikes, he loves and he hates; his strength between love and duty is just like that of an average citizen. We remember one case in particular. We had let a certain case go by because a fearful mother, loved with grief, had come to us and begged the favor. A big-headed man jumped on us about it, and called us a coward for so doing. A short time afterwards the shadow fell upon his son's head and he came running and begged us to say nothing. "Yes," we replied, "but don't you remember the time you called me a coward for keeping still?" "I know," he replied, "but it is different now; I was wrong." And we listened to him, but there are things an editor cannot suppress. There are other things he can forget with propriety. As far as we are concerned, we would rather listen to the grief of a parent than throw out a morsel for gossiping people to feed upon. We would rather wipe the tears from the eyes of a mother than have "nerves" enough to join the heartless crowd of flying tongues and sink the iron deeper into her tender soul. So when in this neighboring paper we failed to find what we wanted we made no comment; but deep down in our heart we admired that editor and thought more of him, because he had a heart that was tender, and he would rather listen to the sob of an unfeeling child than to the sob of a broken-hearted mother, wife or sister.

The above is from a country newspaper in Oregon, and it tells exactly as it is known to every country newspaper man who is known by all his patrons. It is different with the editor of the big city paper, who is practically unknown to nine-tenths of the readers. His seldom appealed to concerning the suppression of news matter that might reflect on a patron. But with the small paper, its editor is asked almost weekly to "say nothing about" such and such a matter, and unless he heeds the appeal, he is beaten and brutal. Even those who never spend a cent with it will expect to be favored every time they "slip a cog." So far as we are concerned, we get weary of this "favoring-by-suppression" business, but we continue to do it—probably for the reason that we still have a heart.

A Pass insurance agent became aware of the fact that a man named Hamilton had been very ill, and decided to pay him a visit. He found Hamilton quite cheerful, but looking rather pale. A long chat helped to wear away the evening. On towards nine o'clock Hamilton was invited over to the agent's house, and as he had made up his mind while on the sick bed to put more insurance on his life for the benefit of those he might leave behind, he decided to accept the invitation and to his family this good turn. Entering the agent's house, he soon found himself seated by a drop-head Singer sewing machine, which was weighted down with all kinds of classy literature from the Calgary Eye Opener to Duncan Marshall's speechlet on swine husbandry. Hamilton had just started in to read this touching little poem written by Dr. J. Olivier, which appeals to many who in the wet past carried a bottle of liquid bait when they went fishing:

It's nice to sit and think and fish,
And fish, and sit and think,
And think and fish, and sit and wish
That you could get a drink,
When the agent suddenly interrupted: "Whad'll ya take?"

"Two thousand dollars!" shouted Hamilton, so loud that a youngster in an adjoining room woke up screaming with fear, then looking up he espied the agent's arms outstretched with a Johnny Walker in each hand. Like a flash Hamilton made a grab for the nearest hand, and hasn't thought about life insurance since.

To The People
of Blairmore

What is our highest duty at this time? I believe it is to thank God, by doing so we do not forget other duties, but to do them better.

I want to thank God publicly that peace has at last come to the warring nations of the world, and that the Allies have been victorious and liberty and democracy saved from a fiendish foe.

I also thank God for the men who have gone forth from Blairmore, Canada and the rest of the world to defend my home and loved ones from the ravages of a heartless enemy. May I always keep fresh in my memory those who made the supreme sacrifice for Liberty.

May I express my deepest gratitude to all the men who have returned and may yet return to their homes, who have so gloriously upheld my rights and their own many a bloody field of battle.

"My gratitude and sympathy goes out to the homes whose loved ones left them for the battlefield, and especially to those whose loved ones will never return, but sleep in 'Flanders field'."

The new order of things that shall come out of this war is another reason for thanksgiving. I pray that the "guinea's stamp" may no longer be the chief dividing line amongst men and that character moulded by diligence and faith in God and man may be supreme.

I also thank God that when this scourge of influenza struck our homeland in God's providence and by the gracious assistance of kind friends and neighbors, that "there is not a bairn missing" from our bedside. I would not forget the men of the medical fraternity who assisted so ably to restore us to health and strength. They are worthy of our sincerest thanks.

I remember with pleasure my association with many of the business and professional men of Blairmore. I thank them for their many courtesies.

The fraternal societies with whom I have been associated come to my memory. I thank them for all the kindnesses I have received from their hands.

Last, but not least, I must speak of those who fear God and love to meet together and talk on His name. For the highest of fellowship I thank God.

For eight and a half years I have lived in Blairmore, and I trust that it has not been in vain and that some have been helped by my sojourn amongst them. Blairmore, farewell!

A brutal murder was committed at Lethbridge on Saturday night last, when O. Chuck, a miner, was beaten and stricken to death at the shack where he and two companions, George Dohel and Pete Paulenko, with whom Chuck lived, have been arrested and given preliminary trial, and will be tried for murder at the next sitting of the Lethbridge criminal assizes.

OBITUARY

Death of Frank Jalek.

The dread influenza epidemic claimed another victim at an early hour on Friday morning in the person of Frank Jalek, a young and promising lad of 20 years. Frank contracted the influenza shortly after the peace celebrations, in which he took an active part with the Czech-Slovaks of Frank. He was removed from his home at Frank to the Blairmore isolation hospital on Tuesday, where it was hoped that under expert care and attention he might pull through. He developed pneumonia and passed away at an early hour on Friday morning. Frank is survived by his parents and several brothers and sisters.

Interment took place at the Blairmore cemetery on Saturday afternoon, at which Rev. W. T. Young officiated.

Death of F. Nicholson

The death of Frank Nicholson occurred on Tuesday morning last at the Blairmore isolation hospital. Nicholson was a well known figure in Blairmore. He followed occupation as a miner at Greenhill. He contracted influenza but a week before his death. He was about thirty years of age, and leaves a wife and two small children. Mrs. Nicholson is now lying in hospital in a very critical condition. NOTICE

Blairmore School District No. 628 Elections 1918.

Public Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the Electors of Blairmore School District No. 628, will be held in the office of the Secretary-Treasurer, on Monday, the 2nd day of December, 1918, from 11 o'clock in the forenoon until 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the office of three (3) trustees for the ensuing term.

Given under my hand at Blairmore this 22nd day of November, 1918.

FRANK WRIGHT,
Returning Officer and Secretary-Treasurer.

A stranger arrived in town one day and gazed around uncertainly. Presently he spotted a man who appeared to be a native.

"Excuse me, sir," he said, "but are you a resident of this town?" "I am," rejoined the other. "What can I do for you?"

"I am seeking a criminal lawyer," replied the stranger. "I wonder if you could direct me to one?" "I believe I can," answered the native, "but, mind you, we've never actually proved it against him."

—Tit-Bits.

Hon. Duncan Marshall is in receipt of a parcel containing half a dozen eggs raised by Albertans on Vimy Ridge.

S. J. Sargent is able to be around after a week's confinement.

Mrs. P. M. Christophers, who has been very ill, is now improving slowly.

Rev. H. Clay and Rev. Father McCormick, of Coleman, are ill with influenza.

Mayor McQuarrie, of Nelson, died of influenza on Thursday morning. He was 54 years of age and had lived in Nelson for fifteen years.

Much satisfaction is expressed locally in the appointment of Senator Robertson to succeed T. W. Crothers as Dominion minister of labor.

Alex. McFegan, son-in-law of F. S. Kelloury, is a candidate for the vice-presidency of District 18, U. M. W. of A. Aleck has been president and secretary of Blairmore local union, and would no doubt pull a good vote in this part of the district.

James Sherlock, who was reported dead of the flu a few weeks ago is around again and looking none the worse for his novel experience. While not exactly dead, he says that he was so near the pearly gates that he could see our wings flapping.

It is now believed that one person survived from the wreck of the C.P.R. steamship Princess Sophia, which stranded and sank near the Alaskan coast a few weeks ago. A Miss Vienne Field is said to have written to a Seattle attorney stating that she is safe in Alaska and suffering no ill effects of the perilous experience, except a severe cold contracted from being some hours in the icy water.

A new problem now confronts the local municipal authorities, that of financing the present epidemic, and will no doubt be one of the first questions to be considered by the new 1919 council. The estimates for the year 1918, made no provision whatever for such an emergency, and taxes have not come in during the year as was expected. As a result the town is placed in the position of not being able to meet its ordinary obligations.

A local gentleman, who, by the way, has paid his taxes in full in direct through the purchase of a plug of chewing tobacco from Chin Hing, says he intends demanding that the Blairmore town council secure a couple of those German 'toy' dreadnaughts for fishery protection service on the upper waters of the Old Man River. He claims that a larger amount of explosives was used in these waters during the last season than was used by the whole German fleet in the Kiel canal during the four years of war, hence his line of economy.

We regret that our paper is so late in coming out this time, but with the howling of the winds and the cobbler's wife next door, who is hanging on to the last end of the Blairmore 'flu,' we really could not work. On Wednesday morning we ventured out without our flu mask and caught a chill in the lower end of our face. Then we met the police and took a chill all over—just scared, that's all. Next week we hope to set matters going right and thereafter will publish promptly every Thursday, which will afford better opportunities to the advertiser who desires to get after the week-end trade. Now is the time to secure advertising space in our December issues, which we hope to turn out in larger and brighter form. We have secured an advertising specialist who will be on the job early next week and will make things hum. Remember, it's the advertising bird that catches the worm.
